I am writing because I am concerned about the lack of competition in agricultural markets. Monsanto is too big and this poses a problem, because they are allowed a free pass where other companies wouldn't.

The chemicals Monsanto puts in food isn't scrutinized to the degree it should be. I'm not totally against genetically modified food. It is very beneficial in poor countries where crops have a tough time surviving harsh climate conditions.

I'm not rocket scientist, but I bet the right politicians receive a lot of contributions from Monsanto. This is very disconcerting.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to comment.

Sincerely,

Daniel Scollan
