

From: Teresa Arthur <tarthur@oaiwp.org>
Sent: Friday, December 18, 2009 11:40 AM
To: ATR-Agricultural Workshops <agriculturalworkshops@usdoj.gov>
Subject: Corporate power controlling my food

Monsanto has way too much power and control over what farmers can grow and over what goes into my food. My family and I all get sick from eating food that is genetically modified. It is a very difficult task to shop and find something that will not make us sick; it is almost impossible to eat out anywhere as high fructose corn syrup (or anything with corn) and soybean oil is in practically everything. It is almost impossible to be invited over to someone's house to eat as something will be in whatever dish they have prepared; same goes true with potluck dinners. Our food supply is tainted.

Thank you,
Teresa Arthur
Unhappy consumer trying to stay healthy